Talks On Bases In Ceylon

N agreement is expected to be published shortly in London announcing Britain's decision to withdraw from its two service bases in Ceylon. That it will withdraw should not be doubted, The terms on which it leaves Negembo and Trincomalee can be guessed at within the broad principles governing Commonwealth relations. But if they go beyond this, much more than bases will be involved. Ceylon's membership in the Commonwealth will be in

Eden Yields To Turkish Protests And British MPs' Opposition

London, July 5.

Britain has abandoned plans to give Cyprus self-determination in 10-15 years because of fierce Turkish opposition to the plan, informed sources said here tonight. Sir Anthony Eden's Conservative government is expected to announce the switch in plans within a few days.

The sudden shift is due both to violent Turkish reaction to feelers put out by Britain and to the storm of opposition raised among a large minority of Empire-minded Conservatives in Parliament.

Turkey bluntly warned Britain it would never accept any move which handed over the strategic Mediterranean island to Greece. Cyprus is but 40 miles from the Turkish coast and 20 per cent of its population are Turkish in origin.

Informed sources here said Britain had decided to scrap the plan in order to keep its alliance. with Turkey strong

SHEPILOV TO MEET LEADERS

Moscow, July 5.

Soviet Foreign Minister, Dimitri Shepilov, stated today that he thought there now existed a broad basis for a rapprochement between the Soviet Union and the United States.

Shepilov added that he hoped to meet American leaders when he goes to the United States in the autumn to attend the United Nations General Assembly.

Referring to his talks with United Nations Secretary-General, Mr Dag Hammarskjold, Sheptlov said that all measures taken by Hammarskiold and the United Nations, aimed at bringing about a relaxation of tension in the Middle East would have the full support of the Soviet Shepilov, who was answering questions put by Western correspondents at a reception given honour of Hammarskjold, said on the subject of Soviet-American relations: "Serious Indications and measures have appeared in recent times which show that there is a real possibllity of progressing towards an improvement in our relations.

Urgent Task

Speaking of the visits to the Soviet Union by various American delogations, including that of the Air Force Chief-of Staff General Twining, Shepilov sald he favoured such contacts as means of improving relations. He added: "The most important and most urgent task is undeniably the development of such Akel, the cutlawed Com- confacts all along the line-in

THE Condition

Shepilov said that an Indispensable condition for rapprochement between Unted States and the Soviet Union was the silencing of "all cold war propagandists." The Soviet press, he said, had long ago stopped "gratuitous attacks" against the U.S.

Saying that he hoped to mee American leaders when he goes to the United States for the UN General Assembly next autumn, Shepilov added: "I believe that personal contacts and explanations represent the most powerful means of contributing to the relaxation of tension and mutual understanding." He hoped to have contacts with leaders of all countries including the Unlied States, he said.

REFORMS NEEDED IN RUSSIA

Rome, July 5. Pictro Nenni's left-wing Socialist Party, long a close ally of the Italian Communists, tonight urged sweeping measures to democratise the political institutions of the Soviet Union .

A statement issued by the party Executive Committee made it clear that in its opinion the "revision of the Soviet experiment", launched at the Soviet Communist Party Congress in Moscow hast winter, did not go nearly far enough.

The statement said the "revision" could not stop at condemnations of abuse of power in the Stalinist era, the return to collective leadership, rehabilitations of disgraced leaders or resort to more tolerant methods.

GUARANTEES

The Neumi Socialist statement said: "The revision must involve the political organisation of powers and must invest institutions, government methods and customs with the principles of liberty. It must give broad democratic guarantees to citizene in their relations with the

At the same time, the party said: "Independently of questions have arisen on certain points of doctrine and method," the new Soviet policy constitutes "an increusingly effective contribution to peaceful co-existence among peoples and states, to the solution of international problems which have remained unsettled since the end of the Second World War and to the concrete organisation of peace."—France-Presse.

Don't make peace with this priest!

By GEORGE GALE

TOT very far from Cyprus someone once went to a mountain and began speaking:-

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

A good deal further away, on an island in the Indian Ocean, there is a man confined behind guards, restive, sullen, not poor but highly proud in spirit, who calls himself Blessed. Makarlos means the Blessed One.

This man, this priest, assumest as extravagantly as any medieval Pope not only spiritual authority over his congregations and clergy but political power also.

He claims, and we, weakly, have allowed his claim, to speak politically for the people of Cyprus. He has agitated, and till recently we, weakly, have let him agitate, as a partisan politician. Only when his negotiations became false and his agitation illegal, when he conflived at terrorism, did we banish him. He had brought more misery to Cyprus than any bungling

British administration. He had brought cowed silence, empty streets, nervous cales, the bullet always in the back. And now in England, voices are raised: "Bring him back, Makarios is the only man we can negotiate with." Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted. They may be comforted, but the mothers of the twenty soldiers barned to death in the Cyprus forests will not be comforted by the return of Makarios, the Blessed One, the man of God, whose monasteries were arms dumps, whose priests were agents of terrorism.

Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the Is Makarios, the Blessed One, meek — who would dispose himself of the future of this once-happy island?

The meek are those who till its fields, who crop its vineyards, who tend its cafes. The meek don't inherit anything in this world. Nobody ever hears the mick for they do not speak with loud voices and smoking guns and hombs thrown at funerals. But the meek will have more peace in their fields and vineyards and cafes without terrorists, without Makarios, without Greece.

This mean State of Greece, this yapping travesty of its great name, this rickety nation that dally mocks its ancient glory, has never owned Cyprus

The Turks took Cyprus from Venice and then in 1878 Britain rented Cyprus from the sultan. We annexed it in 1914 and offered it to Greece the next year. Greece declined the offer.

Now this tin-pot little Balkan State wants it, or at any rate its tin-pot Balkan politicians do and its mob does; and now the tin-pet churchmen of Cyprus want it and the Cypriot mob is out. Great words of justice flow out of little, contaminated mouths. And the lovers of the splendour that three thousand years ago was Greece, the gentle civilised men of classical education, take up the side of a bunch of Balkan agitators. But the meck? The meek in their dusty villages? The gentle men who wish to live in their land, on their fields?. Who hears them, when the air is filled with shouting and bombs?

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled. The Blessed One, Makarios, hungers and thirsts. He hungers and thirsts after power and glory; and the righteous are filled with bullets. Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain

They, may obtain mercy in heaven; where also the meek may inherit their earth. They will not obtain mercy in Cyprus. For the blessed in Cyprus is the archbishop; and Balkan politicians do not show mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart.

There is no purity of heart in politicians. And where was the purity of heart in another Blessed priest of Cyprus-in Makharlotia, the man kicked out of Britain? His name means "Blessed as of old," and his dictionary listed. words like ambush, jack-knife, stick-bomb.

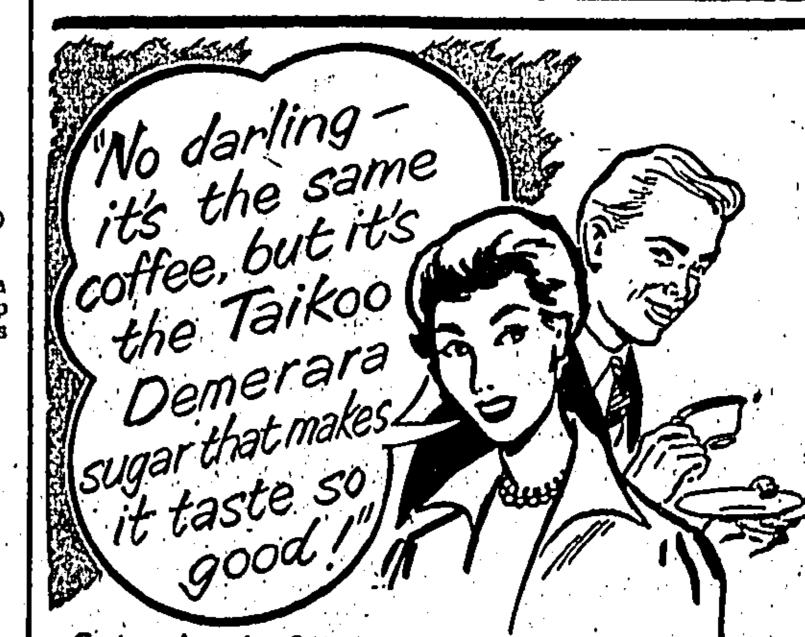

Blessed are the peace-makers. And is his Beatitude, Makarios, a peace-maker? Was Makarios ever interested in peace? He knew his price, and if he could not get it, then he wanted war, not peace. Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake. Was it for his righteousness that we sent him to the Seychelles? Is it for his righteousness' sake that he calls himself Blessed?

Has he been persecuted and reviled for Christ's sake? Is this man, this head of a church, a true pastor to his people? The duties of a priest, grand or small, are simple and known to men; and they do not include incitement to violence, the supply of guns, the connivance at terrorism.

could till their fields in peace. Makarios could even return again—as a Christian, and pastor to his people. But not as Ethnarch, not as political boss, not as companion of murderers and propagandist of hate.

This easy, pleasant land could smile again, and the meek

Brookes And Arnold Give Northants A Fine Start With 79

London, July 5. Surrey, the County Champions, running neck and neck for this season's honours with Lancashire, were surprisingly headed on the first innings today by Northamptonshire.

Surrey had declared at lunch with Ken Barrington 109 not out, including fourteen fours in his second century of the season-but Brookes and Arnold gave Northamptonshire a fine start with an opening stand of 79 and later batsmen added their support, so much so that the Midlanders took the lead late in the day and finished 23 runs ahead with half their wickets still in hand.

Essex, winners over Middlesex a week ago, are fighting to 300 runs tomorrow, with nine first round of the New South wickets in hand, if they are to complete the double.

Middlesex declared twice and at one stage looked like making Essex follow on because of some accurate pace bowling. Angus, a new six feet three inohes giant, shared in this for he took a wicket with his fourth delivery in first class cricket and finished with three for 31.

VETERAN FILM-MAKER SAYS

FILMS ARE NOT FRENCH AS

By HENRY GRIS

French films are rapidly losing their identity, having sacrificed their traditional humour, suave intelligence and lightness to please moviegoers outside France and especially in America.

This is the outspoken opinion of a man who ought to know, Eugene Lourie, who recently co-directed Sacha Guitry's latest super-colossal, "Si Paris M'Etait Conte," and is a veteran of 30-odd years of movie-making. Lourie came to Hollywood on business.

EPIDEMIC YEAR

The year 1952 epidemic year for polio in Denmark, with 2,400 paralytic cuers and about 800 deathshigh figures for a country of just over 4,000,000 people. In 1953 there were 684 paralytic cases, in 1954 only 72 cases and in 1955 a mere 14 cases and no deaths at all.

To what extent last year's vaccination of the important 7—12 age group had a beneficial result, Danish authorities are unwilling to offer an opinion.

But it seems clear that the rmoothness and which the Danes have been able to put their programme into operation has been greatly by having one erntralised, responsible authority in the Serum Institute,

There has, for example, been only one slight setback, last autumn, when some quantities of scrum were found to be infeeted with live virus.

The fault lay in some defective filters and the Institute was able to act swiftly and efficiently to destroy the infected vaccine before any possible harm could be done .- China Mail Special.

Better Enquiry The Close TEXTILE'S ISSUE

By A Special Correspondent

The slight easing tendency which came with the closing of half-year accounts last week continued this week and prices showed a further slight fall.

New account trading opened sluggishly on Tuesday-though the Stock Exchange prefers to describe it as "quiet." Turnover dipped down from $890,000 on Friday to $754,000.

The duliness continued on Wednesday when the half-day yielded orly $253,000 with prices again a shade ensier.

But yesterday the market brightened up. Turnover rose to $970,000 on fresh buying enquiry, and under the leadership of Hongkong Banks and blue chips, the market recovered most of the decline it suffered during the week.

The week closes with furnover well down from $4.61 million to $2.86 million and the list with 12 Josses, eight rises and nine shares steady Brokers attributed market dullness to the holiday

Somewhat Easier

London, July 5. Stocks turned somewhat casier with industrials the main casualties on the London Exchange today.

New demand from labour brought a moderate amount of selling to industrials, although a late rally brought some up from their lows. Losses of one 52% to two shillings appeared in steel shares. Rolls-Royce was 40% another target, off nearly a shilling.

Oils moved narrowly, with most changes running to a 40% shilling either way. 70% Dutch managed to improve about £ %.

GOYT BOND SUPPORT

British Governments found support and went ahead under leadership of medium and longdated issues. War Loan and Old Consols added about & 14.

Japanese 1930s and Tokyo Electric posted gains in a fairly quiet foreign bond group, while German 7 per cents Potash liens gained £

Gold shares were hesitant, and coppers generally steady in quiet trading.

Dollar stocks showed little movement following the Wall Street holiday yesterday. — 🗸 United Press.
